Have you tried to make changes but feel held back?

Through a process called Inner Clarity (IC), the wisdom of the body is used to find limiting beliefs and clear out old ways of thinking. The beliefs that no longer serve us are replaced with new and supportive thought streams. In this experiential workshop, light-touch kinesiology (energy testing) is used as a sensitive feedback tool to access information from the body/mind system. Because energy testing responds to words, questions are asked and answers given in a way that disassembles defenses, and interrupts old programming or automatic reactions.

Inner Clarity (IC) is a powerful method of self-discovery, transformation, and healing. It is grounded in the science of subtle energies, and combines principles and practices from transpersonal psychology, consciousness research, and energy medicine. Expect amazing insights and energetic help for making the major shifts your life path calls for. Often the results are significant and changes are permanent. Come prepared to look at your stuff and come prepared to let it go!
